

Playing by the rules

I am always trying to use simple lines.

Play by the rules. According to simple orders. Morals give me black-and-white chills.

My body corresponds to a body of principles.

I am very consistent in conforming to the power of state.

I am a practicing object in the hands of people who know.

I have predictability inherent in my system. I don't even shit chaotically.

Waiting for a skeleton to come, to regulate my vital functions with his scythe.

Alan Pejkovic